OUTLINES.

President Roosevelt arrived in Chicago yesterday, and the strikers presented him a strongly worded petition urging that no Federal troops be sent there; the President told them that none had been requested but gave the strikers to understand that mob violence would be suppressed, while no difference would be made between the employers and strikers when the law is violated by either; while the President is in the city, the agreement was that there would be no disorder, but a short while after he had passed a point the strikers shot and cut a number of negroes; elsewhere a deputy sheriff shot and killed a striker——Manual training was discussed at the meeting of educational works in Richmond yesterday——Fifteen thousand people attended the funeral of Mr. Washington Duke, the millionaire tobacco manufacturer, at Durham, N. C.

A woman won't state her age to anybody even if her age begins to tell on her.

The teachers of North Carolina are in love with their profession but they can't get married to it because the salary is so small.

The fact that Captain Richmond Pearson Hobson is to be married attracts wide attention South and North. Captain Hobson shows that he is still capable of a brave act.

Says the Richmond Times-Dispatch: "A Norfolk man lost two well filled pocketbooks in one and the same day. Not stated whether on the street or at the race track." If the man satisfied his wife that the money was "lost," let it all pass.

Admiral Nebogatoff is expected to form a junction with Vice Admiral Rojestvensky's fleet to-day. Nebogatoff! Well, if he nebber got off before we'll bet he and Rojestvensky will have the time of their lives getting off if all the vodka hasn't given out on the voyage.

An Indiana man sent $1.50 to the United States treasury to be placed in the conscience fund. Others who might, if they would, make large contributions will be moved to think how little the man must have acted to have shut up Uncle Sam's eye for such a contemptly small lot of change.

Remarks the Charleston News and Courier: "There is going to be a better understanding of the South Carolina Dispensary system throughout the Southern States." Judging from the "rep" the News and Courier gives the State groggery system there is room for a "better"—much better understanding of it.

It is stated that the farmers of Robeson county have reduced their cotton acreage from 20 to 25 per cent. Robeson county lands especially those around Ashepole, are among the finest cotton producing lands in the South. The staple is of extraordinary quality and the crop has to be mighty bad when a bale to the acre is not yielded.

The Star welcomes back to the editorial clique Mr. J. C. Caddell, formerly of the Raleigh Evening Times. He has become editor of the Salisbury Daily Sun, and his handiwork is already showing up in its columns. He is fearless, conscientious and honest, and North Carolina journalism is honored by having a man of his stamp connected with it.

When J. Pierpont was in Rome recently the King of Italy was so pleased with him that he had the great American financier to sit beside him. When Mr. Morgan was in Rome he did more than Rome is allowed to do, but we are glad that he didn't act ugly about it and didn't let the feeling of his oats stand in the way of his doing the King a little favor like that when nothing at all was mentioned about a loan.

COTTON MILLS REORGANIZED.

A special meeting of the stockholders of the Wilmington Cotton Mills was held yesterday for the purpose of putting into effect an agreed plan for the reorganization of the property and for operating the mills in the future under control of new interests and with new management.

The Board of Directors of the company subsequently met in the office of Hugh MacRae & Co., in the Southern Building. Messrs. B. G. Worth, C. W. Worth, M. J. Heyer and Clayton Giles tendered their resignations as directors and Messrs. H. M. Chase, R. L. Thomas, M. F. H. Gouverneur and C. P. Bolles, Jr., were elected to succeed them. Chase was elected president and secretary and treasurer of the mills; Mr. M. F. H. Gouverneur was elected vice-president and Mr. R. L. Thomas, of Hamer, S. C., was appointed superintendent.

The mills which have been closed for several months were re-opened Tuesday of this week and are now running on a full day schedule. White goods are now being manufactured exclusively.

Mr. Chase's connection with the cotton mills in no wise interferes with his duties as manager of the American Textile Coloring Co., which will continue to be operated as an independent enterprise.

IN SACRED MEMORY

Beautiful and Most Impressive Observance of Confederate Memorial Day Yesterday

MR. WATSON'S FINE ADDRESS

Ante-Bellum South and Some of the Elements of its True Greatness—Tribute to Late Bishop Watson—Military Fired Salutes.

Beautiful and most impressive services by the Daughters of the Confederacy and allied Confederate and military organizations yesterday afternoon in Oakdale cemetery most fittingly distinguished Confederate Memorial Day as a "holy day" rather than a holiday, according to the expressed wish of the Daughters, all honor having been paid to those heroes whose last mortal remains lay at rest in the beautiful grounds where the exercises were held. The weather was ideal and all else was decidedly favorable to an observance which should enlist each year the support of the entire community. The attendance was large and those assembled joined reverently in the spirit of the hour.

Promptly at 4 o'clock the procession of cemetery officers, military, Veterans, Sons of Veterans, Daughters of the Confederacy, Children's Chapter, U. D. C., and others formed at the lodge in the cemetery and moved with perfect order to the Confederate lot where the exercises were begun. At the entrance to the monument grounds, the military opened ranks, bared their heads and the Daughters passed through to seats reserved for them within the enclosure. The arrangements were carried out to the letter under the direction of the several commanders and Dr. W. D. McMillan, chief marshal, with the following aides: Dr. J. E. Matthews, Capt. L. S. Belden, Sergeant Major R. F. Hamme, Capt. Owen Fennell, Capt. John H. Hanby and Capt. Jesse Wilder.

The monument at the base of which the Daughters, Veterans, Sons of Veterans and military were seated, was appropriately draped with mosses and beautifully decorated with flowers, a Confederate flag being held aloft from the bronze statue of the typical Southern soldier. The exercises were from an improvised platform, also appropriately decorated with flowers and bunting, and giving a commanding view of the large number of patriotic Wilmingtonians there assembled.

Dr. W. D. McMillan, chief marshal, was master of ceremonies and performed the duties of that exacting position with becoming dignity and ease. The musical numbers were led by a special quartette composed of Mrs. Cameron F. MacRae and Mrs. J. D. Edwards, sopranos; Mrs. F. A. Muse and Mrs. Greene Fenley, altos; Capt. J. VanB. Metts, tenor, and Mr. Alex. S. Holden, bass, with Mr. E. C. Craft, cornetist, as the accompanist. The music was sweet and the selection of numbers in every way befitting the solemn occasion. The Rev. A. D. McClure, D. D., acted as chaplain and invoked Divine blessing upon the exercises, dismissing the large assemblage with a word of prayer when the ceremonies were over.

The address was by Rev. N. M. Watson, the eloquent young pastor of Grace M. E. church, who delighted every one with his able discourse, which is printed in full below.

Only one Cross of Honor was presented and Private F. W. Cornish, Company H., Thirty-first regiment, North Carolina troops, had the proud distinction of receiving that emblem, which was pinned to the lapel of his coat by one of the Daughters of the Confederacy. In the same connection, Commander James I. Metts, of Cape Fear Camp No. 254, U. C. V., read the list of other crosses now ready for presentation to those who will call for them. He also read the list of Veterans and presented to each a copy of the beautiful address delivered by Mrs. Gaston Meares at a presentation on Lee's birthday in the Academy of Music several years ago. Copies of the address were given to those who had received their Crosses before Mrs. Meares' beautiful presentation paper. The "Roll of Honor" was read by Dr. McMillan and immediately following the exercises, when the benediction had been pronounced by Dr. McClure, the military fired a salute at the monument—the Boys' Brigade commanded by Col. Walker Taylor; the Naval Reserves, commanded by Lieut. H. M. Chase, and the Wilmington Light Infantry, in command of Capt. Wm. F. Robertson.

A touching feature of the exercises, not on the programme, was the presentation by Cape Fear Chapter, Daughters of the Confederacy, of a very handsome laurel wreath of red, white and blue to be laid upon the grave of the Camp's late comrade, the Right Reverend Bishop A. A. Watson. Dr. McMillan presented the flowers in the following language:

"Comrades, Ladies and Gentlemen: Since the last presentation of the Crosses of Honor one of those emblems has disappeared from view. It lies on the bosom of a great man beneath the flower covered hills of our beautiful city of the dead.

"He had no high military title. He was only a chaplain in a North Carolina regiment. He was always in the front where duty called him. He lived afterwards a model citizen; a faithful veteran, a great churchman. In short, he was one of Nature's noblemen—a man whom the people might well delight to honor.

"As a token of admiration and affection, the United Daughters of the Confederacy places this floral offering to the memory of our late Comrade, A. A. Watson."

The wreath was received by Miss Hettie James and tenderly laid on the Confederate monument whence it was later transferred and laid upon the grave of the venerable prelate.

While at the cemetery the military companies proceeded from the monument to the graves of departed comrades who have recently passed away and fired salutes as follows: The Boys' Brigade over the graves of their late comrade, Robert E. Presson, and their life-long friend and supporter, the lamented Captain William Rand Kenan. The Wilmington Light Infantry, over the graves of their deceased comrades, the late John C. James and James D. Smith. The Naval Reserves, over the graves of the late Sterling P. Adams and Charles E. Gordon.

Taps were sounded after the salute at the monument by Bugler Willie Watters, of the Wilmington Light Infantry.

Rev. Mr. Watson's Address.

The excellent address of the Rev. N. M. Watson was as follows:

To the Members of the Cape Fear Chapter of the Daughters of the Confederacy and friends who cherish the memory of the Confederate Dead; Ladies and Gentlemen:

It is not an accident, nor will it be without profit to ourselves that we meet on this memorial day to pay again our homage to the heroes of '61-'65. We are part of a great world procession—some have passed, some are passing now—we are on the march—and it should be ours to learn some lesson of wisdom from the records that have been made.

In the palmy days of the Roman government it was the custom of Roman mothers to bring their children once a year into the great Pantheon and spread before them the signs of the triumphs, trophies, victories and heroic deeds of their fathers, and while the faces of ancient heroes looked down upon them from the walls and out upon them from the statuary, there came to the Roman youth an inspiration and a courage that made Rome for many years the undisputed mistress of the world.

While these customs were continued Roman armies were invincible and Roman glory was world-wide. Not until her youth ceased to remember the noble deeds of their fathers, and ceased to look reverently upon the faces of ancient heroes, and gave themselves up to self indulgence, wealth and pleasure, did the once triumphant Roman Eagle bite the dust and Roman power and glory became forever a thing of the past.

If we of the new South are to continue to occupy a place of honor in the world's thought, and in the world's work, we must not forget, at least once a year, to recount the heroic deeds of our fathers and tell of the blood they so freely spilt in defence of American institutions.

Let it never be forgotten, that it was in the South, that the first word was spoken that fired the Colonial heart and pointed the way to freedom from the tyranny of Britain. It was a Southern statesman too that presided over the famous Congress that bade defiance to the mother country; and it was another Southern statesman that framed the immortal declaration of independence. Also it was the South that furnished the great general that led the ragged continentals to victory. Follow that great struggle from beginning to end and you'll see that hope, courage and independence burned nowhere so brightly as under our Southern skies.

Let us not forget that prior to 1861 the South furnished nine of the fifteen presidents of the United States; and besides these a long list of cabinet officers and jurists and statesmen who contributed liberally to the making and guiding of a great nation.

Let the children of our Southland know that for fifty formative years of our national life, the South was the dominating power in the nation, as it had been in the foundation of the colonies out of which the Republic grew. I make bold to affirm that whatever strength or symmetry the Republic acquired at home, or reputation it achieved abroad, in those earlier, crucial years of its history, was largely due to the patriotism and ability of Southern statesmen. We will remember these things. We will tell them to our children; we will teach them in our schools; we will not consent to being cheated out of the place of honor which belongs to us by inheritance.

In the great civil war whose heroes we especially remember and honor today, the men who wore the "grey" showed themselves equal in valor even to Caesar's famous tenth legion; and of those brave men, we will not forget to tell to the world around, that our own state furnished a larger number in proportion to population than any other member of the Confederacy. Nor is it in any invidious spirit, but simply that we stand for truth and claim our own, that we write it on the granite never to be effaced that "North Carolina was first at Bethel, farthest at Gettysburg and last at Appomattox!" In that tremendous, but inequal conflict, lasting for nearly five long years, our fathers and brothers displayed a heroism and bravery unsurpassed in the annals of history. We would show ourselves strangely forgetful, and unworthy to be the descendants of such men if we did not once a year tell the story of their valor, recount their heroic deeds, and bedeck their graves with rarest flowers.

The cause for which they fought went down in defeat, but the Confederate soldier won for himself a name that is immortal. Sleep on, ye brave; and while the Southern skies remain, no vandal hand shall ever rob you of your glory!

If now the clash of arms has ceased; if now a great future seems to lie out before us, it may not be amiss to inquire what were some of the producing causes that gave to the old South leadership in times of peace and such bravery in times of war?

Here, too, we must keep the record straight. If we surrendered musket and sabre at Appomattox, we never have and never will surrender tongue and pen; we'll use them in defense of truth, that gives to the South the place of honor. Keep the record straight. It was in the South, rather than in the North, that the seed of American Liberty was first planted. Jamestown, not Plymouth Rock, was the matrix of true Americanism. Poet and orator have made much of the rock-bound coast and savage wild to which the Puritan fathers came. I would not detract from their glory; I do not disparage their stern integrity; I would not undervalue their religious zeal; I would not rob them of their high achievements; but I would place beside them as worthy of equal honor the brave Cavaliers who fought their way to conquest over savage beast and savage man. It was these Cavaliers who settled at Jamestown that especially gave to the South the genius

SITUATION RELIEVED

THE SHIPMENTS YESTERDAY

Ninety-Six Cars Through South Rocky Mount—Shortage of Transportation Facilities May Be Blessing in Disguise.

At last reports come from the sections of the strawberry belt that there is now a sufficiency of refrigerator cars at all points and that the growers and shippers will likely have no more trouble on that score. The only complaint now is of late deliveries and declining prices. The bulk of the crop has been marketed, though comparatively very heavy shipments went forward yesterday, consisting of 96 cars through South Rocky Mount.

"With all the hue and cry about the loss to the growers," a well-known trucker remarked yesterday, "the public seems to forget that the grower has redress and that his claims will be settled by the transportation people, dollar for dollar. The transportation people are the losers by the car famine, not the grower," he continued. "The issues are clearly drawn and the organized growers have competent attorneys to see that every berry lost is paid for and that, too, at the prevailing prices the day the fruit was tendered for shipment. It may be a blessing in disguise for the producer, for had the large amount of berries tendered to the railroad company gone forward, prices would undoubtedly have been depressed, whereas under the present basis of settlement, the claims will be adjusted at prices for spot delivery."

CELEBRATE TAMMANY DAY.

St. Tammany Day, the greatest of all holidays with the Improved Order of Red Men, will be most fittingly celebrated to-morrow by the local tribes of the order at Wrightsville Beach, an all-day excursion being run to that delightful resort which will be the scene of many gay and festive features. The fare for the round trip from any part of the city will be only 25 cents, and not only the Red Men, but the general public is cordially invited to "come go." "Bring your wives and sweethearts and all other near kin," is the injunction the jolly copper-skins have sent out and they may be depended upon to give everybody a good time. The best of order will prevail. Cars leave the city every half hour from 6:30 A. M. to 12 P. M.

The capture of a pale face, his torture and final burning at the stake with a spectacular war dance are some of the features promised. The Haymakers will be along with a clever stunt and for the general public there will be music and dancing all day and at night in the pavilion. The committee in charge is as follows: W. L. West, W. L. Burkheimer, W. H. Lane, M. G. Silvia, James Winberg, Fred Fuchs and E. P. H. Strunck. William Sheehan, Floor Manager.

THE SEASHORE HOTEL.

Manager Hinton Has Engaged Complement of Efficient Help.

Manager Joseph H. Hinton is making all arrangements to open the Seashore Hotel on Wrightsville Beach on June 3rd, and he is looking forward to one of the most successful seasons in the history of that excellent hostelry. Mr. Hinton will give his personal attention to the hotel as of yore and that is equivalent to saying that the service will be first class in every particular.

The head clerk this season will be Mr. J. W. Woodlum, of Greensboro, and the day clerk will be Mr. Julian R. Clements, now the obliging young night clerk at The Orton. Mr. E. H. Rand, of Raleigh, will be the night clerk. Mr. J. H. Boyette, a man of wide experience, including a successful career at The Arlington, in Atlanta, will be stewart, and Mrs. H. D. Cuney, of Jacksonville, Fla., will be the housekeeper.

The Weber Orchestra, directed by Prof. H. M. Weber, of Memphis, Tenn., has been engaged and the music at The Seashore this season will be a feature.

Mr. Wm. E. Watson, an expert swimmer and an athlete of no mean proportions, has been engaged as lifesaver for surf bathers.

Mr. J. R. Clements will be succeeded as night clerk at The Orton by Mr. W. J. Crowson, of Wadesboro.

BURGLARS ENTERED RESIDENCE.

The residence of Mr. A. L. White, No. 319 North Seventh street, was entered by burglars Tuesday night, entrance having been gained through a window which had been broken open. Mr. White and family are out of the city at Rockingham, N. C., and the burglary was discovered by Mr. Thos. E. Davis, a neighbor, who reported the matter to the police station.

The residence of Mr. White was pretty well ransacked, but those who investigated were unable to discover that anything had been stolen, though two gold watches and other articles of value were left scattered about the room. The burglar was evidently in search of money and knew that if the watch and other articles were taken, they would be too easily identified.

The police are working on the case as best they can in the absence of Mr. White, though there is little, if any, clue to the identity of the marauder.

AMUSEMENTS AT BEACH.

Mr. Oscar M. Canady to Have Popular Resort at New Hotel.

A very handsome amusement parlor will be one of the attractions at the "Tarrymore" hotel on Wrightsville Beach this Summer. It will include two fine pool and billiard tables, the best that are manufactured by the famous Brunswick Balke Collender Company and a double, returning bowling alley.

The place will be in charge of Mr. Oscar M. Canady, a popular young Wilmingtonian of experience and pleasing address, who has been with Mr. H. J. Gerken for a number of years. The patronage of both ladies and gentlemen will be sought and the place bids fair to be one of the most popular resorts on the beach for the young people.

Searchers Had Narrow Escape.

Messrs. W. G. Hatch and John C. Bowden, who have been among the most active and diligent searchers for the body of young W. A. Little, who was drowned at Wrightsville Beach last Sunday, themselves had a narrow escape from drowning in Banks' Channel yesterday morning. After having searched all night from one of the inlets on the beach to the other, they were crossing the channel to another inlet when their boat capsized, throwing them into the water. It was fortunately not deep in the channel, but in finding their way out, both the young men were sunburned badly, and their feet severely cut with shells on the bottom. They were each well nigh exhausted when they got ashore.

At The Academy.

The Osman Stock Company appeared twice at the Academy of Music yesterday. "A Daughter's Sacrifice" was given at special matinee during the afternoon for the especial benefit of ladies and children, and at night a fine production of "Woman Against Woman" was presented, Miss Reicka taking the leading roles to the eminent satisfaction of all. The company is giving much pleasure to theatre-goers this week, and as it will probably be the last attraction this season, it is playing to large audiences. To-night the bill will be the excruciatingly funny four-act comedy, "The Strategists."

Mayor's Court Yesterday.

The police are on the watch for vagrants. The police court record yesterday was an evidence of their vigilance. George Silvia, white, could give no reasonable account of his having employment and was given 30 days on the roads. Robert Smith, a negro, was in a similar "boat" and got a similar sentence. Bertha Nelson, a dissolute white woman, charged with drunkenness and disorder, was given 30 days in the work house. John Miles, the colored brakeman, charged with disorderly conduct at the home of his landlady, was fined $5 and costs. Other cases were of trifling importance.

WILMINGTON, N. C.

Thursday Morning, May 11

NEW LESSON IN MEMORIAL DAY.

We have always admired that noble sentiment in the people of the South—of Wilmington especially—that once a year moves them to emphasize their devotion to our heroes—to lay upon their graves the wreaths of affection and honor, and to signify a pardonable pride in the valor, heroism and achievements of Southern soldiery. It denotes that their descendants have inherited their traits and been inspired by their patriotism, and it will not be out of place to say that we hope never to live to see the day that any portion of our Republic, South or North, will ever forget its heroes dead or living.

Yesterday at Oakdale Cemetery the noble women of Cape Fear Chapter, Daughters of the Confederacy, and the people of Wilmington, paid their annual tribute of memorial to the Confederate dead, about 600 of whom sleep within the enclosure where stands the monument erected to perpetuate the memory of the Confederate soldier whether he is buried in Oakdale or sleeps in an unknown grave elsewhere. We repeat that we admire that sentiment which will not let us forget our heroes, and certainly the beautiful and classic address delivered at Oakdale by the memorial orator, the Rev. N. M. Watson, was an eloquent and timely justification of the custom of paying tribute to men so worthy to be honored. These memorial occasions are not to perpetuate bitter memories, not to recall the unhappy strife of the past, but they serve a nobler purpose. Mr. Watson happily revealed in his classic allusion to the glory and decadence of Rome the inspiration which these memorial occasions give to our people. His address was a departure from the customary memorial address. It was not a heraldry of the deeds and achievements of the Confederate soldier. Those deeds and achievements are a part of history and speak for themselves, but Mr. Watson in attractive phrase pointed us to the lesson which we can learn and future generations should learn in the emulation of the character, the valor and the deeds of the men whose memories we honor.

Mr. Watson turned aside to pay his respects to the Southern men of "the old school," with their high type of character, honor and intellectuality to inspire Southern manhood. If future generations can but emulate the Confederate soldier in patriotism and valor, and develop the sense of honor, the integrity and learning of the cavaliers, the Republic will be safe. We are glad that Mr. Watson brought out these thoughts which he did in so admirable a manner. His address was a gem, and it is an inspiration to our people to utilize memorial day as did those mothers of Rome who sought to teach their sons not to depart from the glory of the fathers.

THE BLUE AND GRAY REUNION.

The railroads have given reduced rates to Washington on account of the reunion of the veterans who wore the Blue and who wore the Gray during the Civil War. The reunion is scheduled for to-day, as the result of a movement which originated at the St. Louis exposition last Summer when five Federals and five Confederates were appointed to make arrangements for the event. Among those who are promoting it are Gen. Joe Wheeler, Gen. George P. Harrison and Gen. J. S. Chase, of Florida, the latter of whom received forty-eight wounds at Gettysburg.

The Birmingham Age Herald referring to the occasion says:

"It is now a little bit more than forty years since the return of peace, and it is strange indeed that so long a period had to elapse before a 'blue and gray' meeting could be held at the national capital. The business men who wore the gray and those who wore the blue were ready to fraternize a year after the war, but there were those who were not so ready and willing, and perhaps it was well to wait forty years."

The Charlotte Observer adds this comment:

"And after they get through with it, the participants will doubtless agree that it might have been further indefinitely postponed. There is nothing to be gained by an artificial love feast of this kind, and it is likely that the fear that something will be said or done to wound feelings will be ever-present as a discomfort. Besides, the Southerners and Northerners come together often enough to know each other pretty well without having reunions on a purely military basis."

We do not anticipate any trouble, but on the contrary expect the Blue and Gray reunion to be a most agreeable and interesting event. After the mollifying experiences of 40 years the men who really did the fighting can get together and laugh and cry over their trials in war. That is what the Confederate and Federal survivors of the Fort Fisher battles did in Wilmington a few years ago. There never was a more intensely interesting and beneficial meeting, and the old North Carolina soldiers vied with each other in giving the warmest grasp to the hands of their former deadly foes in the death grapple at Fort Fisher in January, 1865.

CURRENT COMMENT.

—With a new waterworks system, with the canal power fully developed and new industrial enterprises added to what she already has, Columbia will take on renewed life, and her marvelous growth in the past few years will continue.—Columbia Record.

—Several neurological authorities have contended that mental troubles are due principally to "wine, women and worry." It is strange, though, that hazardous speculation never hurts the mind of reckless trustees of money till they are caught.—St. Louis Republic.

—We have long since come to the conclusion that Booker Washington is losing his influence for good. He is traveling about the country in a private car and making speeches, instead of devoting his time and talents to the good work which he inaugurated at Tuskeegee.—Charlotte Chronicle.

—There would be no complaint of the rapid diminution of the $500,000 Trust-busting fund placed at the disposal of the Department of Justice if the object for which it was appropriated should be attained. It would be worth a good many times half a million to have the claws of monopoly scientifically pared. — Philadelphia Record.

—A citizen of Sandusky, Ohio, claims to have seen a picture of Grover Cleveland in the clouds. It is not unusual to see leading Democrats in the air.—Washington Post.

It would be interesting if the men of the nation could go into executive session and find out how many of them secretly agree with Mr. Cleveland in his criticism of women's clubs.—Washington Post.

—Forestry is becoming a valuable aid to those who need a large supply of lumber. A concern engaged in making pulp is about to undertake the experiment of importing young spruce trees with a view to transplanting and growing them in this country. It is beginning to dawn on commercial minds that it is quite as wise to provide for timber growth as to cut down everything in sight.—Troy (N. Y.) Times.

Anti-Semites have denounced Jews for lack of patriotism after treating them as aliens, and denying them a proper place in the countries of their residence. When they are treated as citizens they perform the duties of citizenship, giving their lives for their country when called upon to do so. Of this the public is reminded by the dedication in the New York cemetery of a monument to the Jewish soldiers who died in the Federal armies during the civil war.—Philadelphia Record.

—In this discussion which Mr. Cleveland has started afresh the most vital interests of the nation are involved. The old domestic ideals, which are the bedrock of the country's greatness, must be preserved. If club membership or political privileges or charitable work or religious activity interferes with the primary duty of a woman to be a good wife and mother, let it be utterly swept away, and society will be the gainer. For when the home is in danger the greatest of perils confronts the State.—Philadelphia Press.

—A teacher in a certain school said to a dull pupil: "When I was your age I could answer any question in arithmetic." "Yes," said the small child, "but you forgot that you had a different teacher to what I have." Collapse of the school teacher.—Chicago Journal.

—"Yes, Gladys, he is rich, but the mere fact of his being rich does not mean anything. Why doesn't he do something? This is a world of endeavor." "Why, papa, he is an artist." "H'm! I've never seen anything of his work." "You ought to see the meerschaum pipe he colored."—Houston Post.

COTTON MARKETS.

New York, May 10.—The cotton market was hardly so active as the last two days, but ruled generally firm with final prices showing a fair gain for the day. The opening was firm at an advance of 7 to 10 points in response to higher cables than expected and active covering. The weather map was considered favorable, however, and after working up to a net advance of about 6 to 13 points, rumors that leading bulls were taking advantage of the crop created by covering, to unload a part of their holdings, checked the demand and prices sagged off to within about four or five points of last night's final. On the decline leading spot people started buying, there was a renewal of bull support, and early sellers covering, sent prices in the early afternoon up to a new high level for the day or a net advance of about 14 to 18 points. Toward the close there was realizing and prices worked off from the best. The close was steady at a net advance of 7 to 14 points. Sales of futures are estimated at 225,000 bales. MUST BELIEVE IT.

When Well-Known Wilmington People Tell It so Plainly.

When public endorsement is made by a representative citizen of Wilmington the proof is positive. You must believe it. Read this testimony. Every backache sufferer, every man, woman or child with any kidney trouble will find profit in the reading.

B. R. King, the well-known policeman, residing at 706 Wooster street, says: "I had terrible pain in my back which worked around to my side and in my stomach, so bad at times that it laid me up. I used internal medicines and they did not help me. I put on plasters and rubbed with liniment, and none of them helped me at all. Seeing Doan's Kidney pills recommended I got a box of them at Bellamy's drug store. The next day after commencing to use them I noticed relief. Since using two boxes of them I have not had an ache or a pain in my back. It is with pleasure that I add my name to those endorsing the claims for this remedy."

SPIRITS TURPENTINE.

—Goldsboro Argus: A gentleman stated to us to-day that there will be ten times as much tobacco planted this year in the neighborhood of Goldsboro as was planted last year.

—Mount Olive is constructing an opera house which will cost, when completed, $7,000, and its seating capacity will be 1,000 persons. The first floor will be occupied by the Southern Express Company. The foundation has been laid there for a new and up-to-date hotel building, which is to cost $12,000, having fifty bed-rooms. The contract has been signed for a new graded school building to cost $10,000. The money for the school was raised on bonds.

—Gastonia Gazette: H. F. Forbes and his sons, Clyde Brady and Edison, in company with Herbert Wright, F. E. Clinton and Mr. Smith, went fishing in Crowder's creek bottoms on the land of the first-named Friday afternoon. They were equipped with pitchforks and spears and succeeded in capturing 47 carp on the bottoms, while the water was over them. The fish ranged in weight from 4 to 19 1-2 pounds. The whole lot weighed 375 pounds, and they were brought to Gastonia and sold at 10 cents per pound.

—The railroad election in Davidson county went off very quietly on Tuesday. Lexington township voted to subscribe $125,000 to the capital stock of the Winston-Salem Southbound Railway, by a majority of 57 to 12. Total registered vote 867. When the result was known there was much rejoicing by the friends of the road. The steam whistles at the Elk, the Dixie, the Rex, the American, and other factories here sent forth the glad tidings. Cotton Grove township also voted $15,000 by subscription by a good majority. The election in Midway township failed by 15 votes.

—Raleigh News and Observer: Mr. Wiley B. Fort, of Pikeville, who is in the city served with the late Washington Duke, of Durham, in the Confederate Navy. Mr. Fort was in the navy during the entire war and says that in 1863 Mr. Washington Duke enlisted as a volunteer and served until he was captured at Sailors Creek two days before "The Surrender." Mr. Duke served on "The Indian Chief" and on "the iron clad." "The Columbia" was in several engagements, and Mr. Fort says he showed his courage throughout his entire service. Speaking of Pikeville, Mr. Fort said that the people by a vote of 20 to 13 had ordered a dispensary which will be shortly opened with Addison Smith as manager. "Pikeville is progressing," said Capt. Fort. "A large three-story hotel is being constructed in our town."

—Outlawed, a fugitive from justice, hounded at every turn by the officers of the law, shot at, a price on his head and unable to escape from the dragnet that for weeks has been slowly tightening about him, Melvin Angel, counterfeiter and all-round bad man, last night tired of the strenuous life and his efforts to elude the man-hunters, sent word to the United States authorities that he wished to give up. He carried out his agreement to the letter and early this morning placed himself in the custody of Deputy Marshal Ben Barnes, was taken before United State Commissioner McCall, waived examination and gave a justified bond in the sum of $500 for his appearance at the November term of Fereral Court. The unrelenting hunt for Melvin Angel has been in progress for many weeks. He is charged with counterfeiting, and it is said that the evidence against him is strong. During the month of March evidence was secured that led the authorities to the conclusion that Angel was making the "queer" at a place on Valley street and that the conduct of a restaurant was only a blind. A warrant was sworn out for him, but when the officers put in an appearance Angel bade them an affectionate ta-ta, and hit the trail for the mountains. He was located yesterday and a number of shots were fired, but he escaped again, He, however, later decided to give up. There was a reward of $520 for his capture.

A Creeping Death.

Blood poison creeps up toward the heart, causing death. J. E. Stearns, Belle Plaine, Minn., writes that a friend dreadfully injured his hand, which swelled up like blood poisoning, Bucklen's Arnica Salve drew out the poison, healed the wound, and saved his life. Best in the world for burns and sores. 25c. at R. R. Bellamy's drug store. **

of leadership and the bravery of war.

Out of this beginning there grew up in the South an aristocracy of wealth and blood. To be sure, history is full of contradictions. The South was not the original home of a pure Democracy. Our fathers believed and asserted that the true development of society, the stability of government, the conservation of the rights of all classes, depended largely upon a social system in which one class, made up of comparatively a few individuals, should rule over the masses for the good of all concerned. Such an aristocracy, of course, developed some very objectionable features in the hands of degenerate sons of noble sires, but on the other hand, such an aristocracy gave to the country a race of leaders at a time when leaders were imperative.

But it not only gave leaders, but a solid phalanx of soldiery that looked with supreme contempt and indifference upon pain, suffering and death, when these were demanded in defense of what was conceived to be just and right. In no country in the world was a proud family name more prised or more potent than in the old South.

Linked indissolubly with this aristocracy of wealth and blood was something which, in my judgment, was stronger and better than both of these combined. I do not know how better to denominate it than to call it an aristocracy of honor.

Proud of their ancestral names and positions of leadership, and boastful of their high descent, the aristocrats of the old South, true to the Cavalier traditions, erected an ethical system that defined and regulated all social and public matters, and became the inflexible code of everyone who aspired to be called a Southern gentleman. The foundation of this system was laid in a man's honor, and this bond came to be as sacred as life itself. A gentleman of the old South might have many faults. He might sin often and easily against himself. But woe to the man, who in any relationship, public or private, violated the code of honor. This code was not always as faultless as the ten commandments, but it gave to the South of ante-belium days a high type of manhood and honor. It was a better protection to the public than bonding companies or bankrupt laws. In the social world it compelled to circumspection in what was said and done, or else the wrong-doer must atone for his wrong in the peril of his life. With all its evils and abuses the duelling code gave to the men of the South a conception of character far too high to allow an insult to be appeased by a damage suit or any money consideration. We were not then a commercial people and character and honor were not estimated in such cheap things as dollars and cents.

The intellectual life of the old South was a fitting complement of its unique social system. The charge has often been made that it produced few, if any, great writers, and left no lasting impress upon the literature of the times. If there is any truth in this charge it is sufficient to answer that the South had a different mission before it. It needed to produce great thinkers and doers, and it produced them, as the half century of its dominating leadership in national affairs attests. The Southern man by tradition, inheritance and choice, was trained to think and to act especially upon all matters of political and public import. He was a born politician in the best sense of that much abused term. Like Hannibal he was led early in life to the altars of his country and dedicated to its service. He coveted and cultivated the power and authority of the rostrum rather than the pen. The beauty of field and forest, of sparkling stream and budding flower appealed to his aesthetic taste, but not to his intellectual life. It was his ambition and delight to stand before his countrymen on some great day and set forth the length and breadth of some great argument, patiently studied and wrought out in his library, and now made luminous and inspiring to the multitude by the power of oratory.

Another feature of the intellectual life of the South, before the Civil War, was its devotion to, and mastery of the classics. I doubt if the youth of any country were ever better trained in Greek and Latin history and poetry than the Southern boys of ante-bellum days. Latin, Greek and higher mathematics, with a modicum of the physical sciences, constituted the favored curriculum of the old-time academy and college. The standard of study was severe and thorough, and the discipline rigorous and exacting. It was well calculated to toughen the fibre of budding manhood. The modern utilitarian conception of education was not much in evidence. The bread and butter argument was reserved for a later generation. The cheap and tawdry "Business College" with its bewitching curves and shaded paraphernalia, recruited from guileless country youth, ambitious to become merchant princes and railroad magnates by a six-months course in double entry and a little lightning arithmetic, had not then entered upon its dazzling career.

One other contributing cause to the strength and valor of the manhood of the old South must be mentioned. Reverence for God and respect for womanhood. I put the two together because they were inseparable parts of the best religious life of ante-bellum days. We got these qualities through a providential mixing of Puritan and Cavalier, Hugenot and God-fearing Scotch-Irish ancestry. Nothing in our past history has contributed more to our strength and stability. And while New England, once the stronghold of an orthodox Bible and church, is now the prey of isms and innovations innumerable; and while the great west is marked by the painful contrast between its big secular enterprises and its diminutive churches and congregations, the South has continued largely to be not only the acknowledged home of the only pure Americanism, but the center also of conservatism and reverence in the worship of God and the maintenance of the highest ideals of womanhood.

If now and then upon the horizon of public or private life we see the signs of approaching danger, let us, as we stand near the graves of our heroes, pledge eternal devotion to the best traditions of the past.

So long as the tenth of May with its wealth of richest flowers comes to bless our lives, let us remember that yonder marble shaft perpetuates the memory of those, who, true to the instincts of their birth, faithful to the teachings of their fathers, constant in their love for the State, died in the performance of their duty. In the darkest hours of war, while languishing in prison, while suffering alone upon the filed of carnage and blood, in the last struggle with death, they found consolation and comfort in the thought that tho' dying alone they would never, no never, be forgotten by the men and women of the South.

CROWD SAW DRAMATIC SUICIDE.

By Wire to The Morning Star.

Pottsville, Pa., May 8.—Hundreds of spectators looked on in horror to-day while Mrs. Harry Phillips, of Mt. Carbon, deliberately drowned herself in Tumbling Run Lake. The woman and her husband have for some time been living apart. To-day they met on the shore of the lake and Mrs. Phillips made a demand that her husband hand over to her the keys to their former home. When he refused, she exclaimed: "Then I shall do what I said I would." Before a hand could be raised to restrain her she sprang into the lake and sank from view. A crowd rushed to the shore, but so horrified was the throng that no effort was made to rescue the woman. Twice she came to the surface, and a most dramatic touch was lent to the tragedy by her holding up a crucifix as she disappeared for the last time. After several hours' grappling the body was recovered late this afternoon. It was found that the woman had attired herself in her best black silk dress and worn whatever ornaments she possessed. The dead woman was 22 years old and a tall blonde, weighing 200 pounds.

Saved by Dynamite.

Sometimes a flaming city is saved by dynamiting a space that the fire can't cross. Sometimes, a cough hangs on so long, you feel as if nothing but dynamite would cure it. Z. T. Cray, of Calhoun, Ga., writes: "My wife had a very aggragated cough, which kept her awake nights. Two physicians could not help her; so she took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs, and Colds, which eased her cough, gave her sleep, and finally cured her." Strictly scientific cure for bronchitis and La Grippe. At R. R. Bellamy's drug store, price 50 c. and $1.00 guaranteed. Trial bottle free. **

Let me say I have used Ely's cream Balm for catarrh and can thoroughly recommend it for what it caims. Very truly (Rev) H. W. Hathaway, Elizabeth, N. J.

The Balm does not irritate or cause sneezing. Sold by druggists at 50 cts., or mailed by Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., New York. **

Terrific Race With Death.

"Death was fast approaching," writes Ralph F. Fernandez, of Tampa, Fla., describing his fearful race with death, "as a result of liver trouble and heart disease, which had robbed me of sleep and of all interest in life. I had tried many different doctors and several medicines, but got no benefit, until I began to use Electric Bitters. So wonderful was their effect, that in three days I felt a like new man, and to-day I am cured of all my troubles." Guaranteed at R. R. Bellamy's drug store; price, 50c. **

ARMY OF THE POTOMAC REUNION AT MANASSAS

By Wire to The Morning Star.

Mansasssas, Va., May 10.—A camp fire at Nicell hall to-night in which the veterans of the Society of the Army of the Potomac fraternized with their war-time foes terminated the first day's session of the thirty-sixth annual reunion of the society. The citizens of Manassas co-operated with the visitors to make the gathering a distinct success. The various organizations in the society were well represented in the interesting exercises that characterized the day's proceedings. General Daniel E. Sickles, General John C. Black and Corporal Tanner made informal addreses, expressing gratitude for a united country. The principal exercises of the day were conducted in the court-house, a relic of war-time. Representative Avery, of Virginia, delivered an address of welcome on behalf of the State of Virginia, in the absence of Governor Montague who was prevented by illness from attending. General Horatio O. King responded. He was followed by Dr. Henry M. Clarkson, former surgeon in the Confederate army, who read an original poem. The orator of the day was Rev. Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis, of Brooklyn, but Gen. King made a notable speech breathing a spirit of reconciliation. He said in part:

"I speak the sentiment of all the members present, and indeed of the whole society, in saying that we are and all others will be most deeply affected by your generous words of welcome. The scene and the occasion are indeed unique. Forty years ago these fertile fields, brilliant with the verdure of Summer, nowhere more beautiful than in this noble State, echoed to the tread of vast batallions returning homeward; gallant men who less than a month before stood in hostile array in presence of bellowing muskets and smoking cannon served by as brave partisans as ever responded to the call to arms. That the war was desperate and prolonged was due to the nativity and like temperament of the combatants. When the great orator and divine Henry Ward Beecher was in Europe, he was severely chaffed by an Englishman because of the North's frequent reverses in the great war then in progress. Mr. Beecher, a little nettled, replied, "Ah, my friend, please bear in mind that we are not fighting Englishmen; we are fighting Americans." So the magnificent valor exhibited on both sides in that unparalleled conflict is a common heritage of which all Americans are proud. We were brothers then, simply estranged for a while by a difference of opinion on constitutional questions, and we are tenfold closer brothers now that these questions have been settled by the arbitrament of war, and settled forever.

"Certainly one notable result of the struggle was that both sides learned to know each other better, and to change their opinions, which were mutually based upon imperfect knowledge. In the "Lady of Lyons," Claude Melnotte is made to say in substance, "It is remarkable how much you respect a man after you have fought him;" and surely out of this respect, when the last shot was fired, sprang the renewed esteem and friendship which animated the contending hosts, who shared their hardtack and coffee and drank something more stimulating than either from the same canteen.

"Indeed, throughout the four years of bloody strife, there never was a time when the North was not ready to treat with the South, with a view to any compromise that did not involve the dismemberment of the Union. * * * For the welcome you have extended to us, words are inadequate to express my thanks. To your Executive Committee, who have given so liberallyq of their time and energy ,to the citizens who have responded with such alacrity to your appeals, I can only say that allhave given another and noble exposition of tht Virginia hospitality which is known throughout the world. I thank you."

At a business session, Washington was selected as the next meting place and officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows:

General Henry C. Dwight, of Hartford, Conn., president; General Horatio C. King, recording secretary; Frank O. Holiday, treasurer; W. L. Potts, corresponding secretary.

WARM WIRELETS.

Bishop R. K. Hargrove, president of the board of trustees of Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn., owing to bad health, will resign that position next month. He probably will be succeeded by Bishop S. B. Galloway, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

Former President Grover Celveland arrived in Norfolk yesterday as the guest of E. C. Benedict aboard the latter's yacht Oneida, which brought the party from Georgetown, S. C. They left Norfolk on the Oneida last evening for New York. Mr. Cleveland did not land in Norfolk.

The immense new union passenger terminal station in Atlanta, which will be used jointly by the Southern, the Atlanta and West Point, and the Central of Georgia railroads, will be opened next Sunday morning. The opening will be celebrated by a reception of the general public next Saturday and the Southern fast mail from New York and the east will be the first train to enter the terminal.

At supper call at the Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Blacksburg, Va., Tuesday night, the whole corps of cadets refused to go to mess. After the companies had formed the command "Fall out" was given and the corps broken ranks, most of the students retiring to their rooms. This action was a protest against the food furnished, the cadets claiming they could not stand it longer, and was taken, they say, to bring their grievance to the attention of the proper authorities.

At a special meeting of the Georgia State Board of entomology held in Macon yesterday it was unanimously agreed to abolish a regulation relative to the boll weevil quarantine, which prohibited the shipment into Georgia from Louisiana and Texas of shelled wheat, shelled corn and cow peas, except during the months of July, August and September of each year. The abolishing of this regulation will allow shipment of the articles mentioned at all times of the year.

The cadet mess hall at the Virginia Military Institute at Lexington was destroyed by fire yesterday. Heroic efforts were made by cadets and the Lexington fire department to save the building but without success as the fire had gained considerable headway when discovered. The loss is covered by insurance. The origin of the fire is unknown. Temporary arrangements have been made for the accommodation of the 300 cadets. The building will be reconstructed.

THE PRESIDENT IS IN CHICAGO

Strikers Present Him Strong Protest Against Use of Federal Troops

HE SERVES TIMELY WARNING

No Troops, He Said, Have Been Requested But Disorder Must Cease —Negroes Cut and Shot— One Man Killed.

By Wire to the Morning Star.

Chicago, May 10.—Honoring and honored by his political foes, but personal friends, President Roosevelt tonight was the chief guest at a magnificent banquet tendered to him by the Iroquois Club, the leading Democratic organization of Illinois. Surrounded by men who have fought against him in two national political campaigns the President to-night was given to understand that in his case political differences were not a personal issue. The banquet was given entirely by Democrats, to the leader of their political opponents and many of the kindly personal refernces made by the speakers of the evning, the majority of whom are men of Democratic faith, deeply touched the President. Through out the entire evening ran the dominant note of admiration for the character of the man himself.

Addresses were made by Mayor Dunne, Governor Deneen and others. The President in responding discussed organizations of capital and labor, saying in part:

"I believe thoroughly in each kind of organization but I recognize that if either kind of organization does what is wrong the increase in its power for efficiency that has resulted from the combination, means the increase in its power to do harm, and that therefore, corporation, that is, organized capital, and union, that is organized labor, must alike be held to a peculiar responsibility to the public at large and that from each alike we have the right to demand not only obedience to the law, but service to the public."

Passing to the railroad rate question the President said:

"I believe that the Federal government must take an increasing control over corporations. I trust there will be no halt in the steady process of assuming such national control and the first step toward it should be the adoption of a law conferring upon some executive body the power of increased supervision and regulation of the great corporations engaged primarily in inter-state commerce of the railroads."

The President declared that he believed in unions, but that "the union, like the individual, must be kept in a strict accountability of the power of the law. Mayor Dunne, as president of the United States and therefore, as the representative of the people of this country, I give you as a matter of course, my hearty support in upholding the law, in keeping order, in putting down violence, whether by a mob or by an individual (cheers, with many standing waving handkerchiefs and napkins). And there need not be the slightest apprehension in the heats of the most timid that over the mob spirit will triump in this country. Those immediately responsibility for dealing with the trouble must exhaust every effort in so dealing with it before call is made upon any outside body. But if ever the need arises, back of the city stands the State and back of the State stands the nation." (Cheers).

Strikers Petition President.

Chicago, May 10.—President Roosevelt's trian arrived at the Chicago and Northwestern railroad station a few minutes after noon and was met by the reception committee. The President and partly immediately started for the Auditorium Annex.

The street through which the President's carriage were lined with police and men in uniform and plain clothes mingled with the crowd everywhere. In addition there were over fifty detectives who followed the President's carriage and watched the crowds closely for any disturbers. President Roosevelt addressed the Merchants' Club at the luncheon given him by the merchants organization at the Auditorium this afternoon. The theme of his talk was the upbuilding of a great navy for the sake of the nation's commerce and the nation's honor. He appealed to other commercial organizations to propagate the idea of a big navy. The President made another address at the Hamilton Club.

A strongly worded protest against the sending of Federal troops to Chicago was submitted to President Roosevelt this afternoon. The protest is signed by C. P. Shea, president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Charles Dold, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor and by other labor leaders. The employers have repeatedly spurned the request of the labor leaders for arbitration, the protest declares, and boasted that Federal troops would back up the employers' side of the controversy.

"Peace," says the protest of the labor leaders, "rest not upon the militia or the army but upon the patience and long suffering of toiling masses. Can a few soldiers, scare the men who make armies and who compose the flower of American manhood?" Declaring that the workers will abide by the decision of an arbitrator, even should that decision fail to be all that might be hoped for, the appeal to the President closes with the request that he consider all the facts in the case before he permits any abuse of Federal power in complying with a request for troops.

The committee presenting the protest was received by the President in person at the Auditorium Annex. The President told them that no demand had been made upon him for the use of troops in Chicago. He said he regretted that the protest should have spoken of the Federal army as it did. He declared that Mayor Dunne had his hearty support in suppressing mob violence and concluded:

"I am a believer in unions; I am an honorary member of one union. But the union must obey the law just as the corporation must obey the law, just as every man, rich or poor, must obey the law. As yet no action has been called for by me and most certainly if action is called for by me I shall try to do exact justice under the law to every man so far as I have power. But the first essential is the preservation of law and order, the suppression of violence by mobs or individuals."

It was generally understood by both sides to the strike that there would be no disturbances while President Roosevelt was in the city. Notwithstanding this tacit agreement there were a number of outbreaks, one of them taking place in Michigan avenue, a short time after President Roosevelt had passed the spot. In this riot several negroes were cut and shot. The employers sent out more wagons today, with fewer guards than at any previous time since the strike began. The Employers' Association is steadily increasing the force of non-union men and to-night it was said fully 2,000 men were ready to take charge of the wagons.

During the luncheon given by the Merchants' Club this afternoon President Roosevelt and Mayor Dunne talked of the strike situation. Mayor Dunne told the President that the most alarming stage of the strike had passed and that the police had control of the situation.

TERRIBLE WRECK ON PENNSYLVANIA

Fifty Daad and One Hundred Injured Early This Morning

NEAR HARRISBURG, PENN.

Passenger Train Dashed Off Track Into Freight Cars Loaded With Dynamite—Series of Explosions Followed.

By Wire to The Morning Star.

Harrisburg, Pa., May 11.—An express train of the Pennsylvania railroad ran into a freight train in which there were two cars loaded with dynamite, at 1:10 o'clock this morning in South Harrisburg, near the plant of the Paxtang Light, Heat and Power Company.

Three terrific explosions that broke windows all over the city followed and the two trains were completely wrecked and took fire. It was estimated at 3 o'clock that 50 persons were killed and 100 injured, though these figures may be too small.

It is impossible to ascertain the exact number of fatalities because the wreckage is still ablaze and unapproachable, in which many of the passengers and some members of the train crews are pinned and many small explosions occur continually.

When the first explosions occurred bodies were thrown clear out of the berths in the sleeping cars, many landing down the railroad embankment and some having been hurled into the Susquehana river which parallels the railroad in that locality. All the physicians of the city procurable were summoned to work with the injured.

A fire alarm sounded and the firemen arrived, to find themselves practically helpless in the work of rescue. A police patrol wagon was commissioned as an ambulance, as many of the injured as possible were loaded into it on each trip and taken to the Harrisburg hospital, the capacity of which soon became taxed because of the large number that were brought in. A special train brought the injured and dying to the union station. Many of the injured were taken into private houses.

Immediately after the wreck all the passengers who could do so, ran from the scenes of horror to safety from the incessant small explosions.

The agonizing cries of the unfortunates were heartrending. The office of the Paxtang Light, Heat and Power Company looked like a hospital. At an early hour the Harrisburg Traction Company ran out a number of cars from its South Harrisburg barns and used them to bring the injured to the hospital.

With practically no clothing, many women and children from the train were compelled to wander about the fields as there are few houses in immediate vicinity of the wreck.

The train was the second section of No. 19. There were 169 passengers in the train and the latest estimate is that fifty were killed. The hospital is crowded to the doors and the hotels are being opened for the care of the injured. It may be necessary for the authorities to seize one of the hotels and turn it into a temporary hospital.

Train No. 19 which was wrecked was westbound passenger and is known as the Cleveland and Cincinnati express. It left Philadelphia at 11:50 Wednesday night and was due at Harrisburg at 1:30 A. M. and at Pittsburg at 8 A. M.

The engineer of the passenger train was H. K. Thomas, of Philadelphia, who was killed outright. He leaves a family. The fireman, R. R. Dickey, of Philadelphia, was only slightly injured. A. L. Crosby, conductor, was injured.

500 KILED IN TORNADO.

Terrible Distruction of Life at Snyder, Oklahoma.

By wire to The Morning Star.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Reports have reached here from Hobart and Anadarko, confirming the news of a tornado at Snyder, but no details are known. The 'Frisco is sending a relief train from Chickasha to Snyder. It is rumored that 400 people are killed and injured.

The telegraph operator at Chickasay, I. T., states that he talked over the telephone with Hobart, Oklahoma, near Snyder and that all wires in the vicinity of Snyder are down, but relief trains are being sent from several directions to Snyder. Snyder is a town of 1,000 people in Kiowa county, Oklahoma, located on the Frisco railroad.

Sapulpa, I. T., May 11.—At 11.40 o'clock last night the dispatcher for the Frisco in Sapulpa, I. T., received a dispatch from Endid, O. T., advising that a tornado had struck Snyder Okla., wrecking the town and killing 500 people, among whom was the station agent of the 'Frisco at that own. The request came also for assistance. On the strength of the report the dispatcher ordered a relief train with physicians to be sent from Chickasha, I. T., and Quanah, Texas. The wire between Snyder and Sapulpa went down about 10 P. M.

COTTON TALK AT NASHVILLE

Ninth Annual Meeting of American Cotton Manufacturers' Association Assembled

TWO HUNDRED DELEGATES

President Ayres, of Tennessee University, Strikes Key Note in Advocating Technical Education in South.

By wire to The Morning Star.

Knoxville, Tenn., May 10.—With over 200 delegates present from all parts of the United States, the ninth annual session of the American Cotton Manufacturers' Association began this morning in the Woman's Building, with President R. S. Rheinhardt, of Lincolnton, N. C., presiding. While the delegates were assembling in convention hall, the whistles on all manufacturing plants broke loose in a chorus of noise that formed the industries' salute to the City's guests.

Addresses of welcome were delivered by Governor John I. Cox and Mayor W. H. Gass, for State and city respectively, and by W. B. Lockett for the business interests. Mayor Gass presented the convention with a magnificent souvenir, being a set of keys carved from Tennessee marble and enclosed in a case made of native materials, cotton, coal, iron and timber.

Governor's Cox's appearance on the stage was greeted with applause. In part he said:

"We want your push and energy to help make this the wealthiest section of the entire Western Hemisphere. A thrice hearty welcome to the South with your mills; especially welcome to this State. The cotton planters and manufacturers should be friends; they have a common interest. The price of cotton should guarantee a profit on the product. I believe the manufacturer and the planter should fix the price, and not the gamblers and speculators, so that it would be impossible to have seventeen cent cotton, and now, after only six months, six cent cotton." He closed with a picture of the South's prosperity with the Panama canal completed.

On behalf of the city, Mayor William H. Gass spoke words of welcome and presented the keys of the city to the association. There were three keys of marble, a large one for the president, and two smaller ones for the vice-president and secretary. They were in a handsome case and every part of the gift was made in the city, the pick of Knoxville's marble, timber, copper, coal, cotton and steel industries.

After another welcoming address on behalf of the commercial bodies by W. B. Lockett, Arthur H. Lowe, of Fitchburg, Mass., made a pleasing response. He held that the first need is ample cotton; to this end there should be a perfect relation between the grower and the manufacturer. A cotton speculator, he said, neither grows nor helps, but unsettles values. The world expects the cotton States of America to widely discharge their duty in producing cotton. To curtail crops, he declared, was a child of the speculator, and the policy was short sighted and suicidal. The South needs more labor; its resources are already greater than it can manufacture and already there is a cry for laborers to come over and help. He touched on the need of warehouses, better financial methods, better laws, more technically educated men, better methods of power application in solving present problems. If all plants were now operated at full capacity, the market would be supplied in a few months. More markets must be obtained.

Technical education in the South was discussed by Dr. Brown Ayres, president of the University of Tennessee, and his remarks struck a responsive chord in the convention. The hope of stopping the export of raw cotton from the South and the turning of the South's energy to its manufactures he held depended largely on the technical training of the young people of the South. He wanted this section to quit talking so much about its resources and more about how it can convert the resources into products, and put them on the market. A few thousand dollars placed among institutions attempting this work would do much. Only three Southern States have done anything definite in technical training.

At the close of Dr. Ayres' address, George Hiss, of Charlotte, N. C., continued the discussion, turning his attention particularly to the need of training men to represent this country in foreign lands that American markets might be extended. He closed with presenting a resolution which was unanimously adopted that the association petition and memorialize the Senate and House of Representatives, that they consider the advisibility of enacting a law providing for the creating of a College of Commerce for the purpose of education of young men of our country with a view to their becoming thoroughly competent to represent our country as consuls and commercial agents in foreign countries, with the object in view of extending our export trade. Copies of the resolutions will be sent the President and Secretary of Commerce and Labor. Each delegate is pledged to work for the success of the measure.

In his annual address President Reinhardt entered into a discussion of the development of the cotton industry during the past year, and concluded by predicting a great export trade, which has already begun to augment. To the wide fluctuation in the price of cotton in America in less than a year, from 16 1-2 to 6 1-2 cents, he attributed the unsatisfactory demand for cotton goods. He congratulated the cotton mill men upon the enactment of a well considered "merchant marine bill," and an augmented navy to protect foreign trade which he believed is certain to follow the opening of the Panama canal.

J. W. Nasmith, of Manchester, England, next discussed the Nasmith comber. His paper was followed by one on the steam turbine read by L. C. Bullington, of the Westinghouse Machine Company, of Pittsburg, Pa. He commended the turbine, especially for use in cotton mills.

C. A. Green, manager of the foreign department of R. G. Dun & Company, of New York, spoke on "Plans for Furthering Export Cotton Trade." He recommended that representatives be sent to foreign fields, several mills to pay the expenses of one delegate. They were to study the needs of the people in foreign countries.

Harvie Jordan, president of the Southern Cotton Association, spoke on "Closer Relations Between Producer and Spinner." William Whittam, Jr., of Charlotte, N. C., editor of the American Cotton Manufacturer, discussed "Foreign Consumers of Export Cotton and their Requirements."

Louis I. Guion, of Columbia, S. C., told of experiments with electricity as motive power in mills.

Frank W. Weston, a Boston architect, delivered the closing address of the day, on "Mill Ventilation."

Following the afternoon session, receptions were tendered the visitors by commercial organizations, Elks, etc., and to-night all were taken to a suburban park, where a reception was held.

As a result of the convention to-day, a party of mill men are to make a tour of Southern cotton mills as the guests of the Southern Railway.

SIXTEEN WERE KILLED.

Result of Anti-Semitic Outbreak In Russian City.

By Cable to The Morning Star.

St. Petersburg, May 11.—2:20 A. M.—According to private advices from Zchitomir, the fruits of the anti-Jewisn riots there are sixteen killed and over 100 wounded, mostly Jews. Martial law was proclaimed at Zchitomir to-day. The city is filled with troops and order generally is restored, though individual cases of violence are still occurring and a renewal of rioting is feared Saturday evening and Sunday next. Stores, which have been barricaded in fear of tumults, are gradually re-opening an ordinary life in the city is resuming. The same private advices bring news of a further anti-Semitic outbreak in Gostynin, in the province of Warsaw, in which many Jews were injured and houses pillaged. No fatalities, nowever, are reported, but Jewish circles here fear further developments, not only in Zchitomir and Gostynin, but also in other localities along the Polish frontier where the Jewish element is numerous and the anti-Semitic sentiment strong.

The official account of the Zchitomir tumult assigns the origin of the rioting to an encounter between a party of Jews who were boat-riding and some roughs on the bank of the river. The latter stoned the Jews who defended themselves with revolvers, wounding several of the attacking party, but not seriously. Reports of the encounter quickly spreading, aroused the Christian populace to frenzy. The Jews also banded together for mutual protection. The disorder culminated on May 7th in a pitched battle between Jews and Christians in the public square in the center of the city.

FUNERAL OF MR. W. DUKE.

Services Attended by 15,000 People— Great Profusion of Flowers.

By Cable to The Morning Star.

Durham, N. C., May 10.—Fifteen thousand people attended the fnueral of Washington Duke, the founder of the Duke branch of the American Tobacco Company, here to-day. The banks and schools of the city, and many of the manufacturing establishments were closed during the entire day and practically all business of the city was closed during the exercises, which began at 11 o'clock at Main Street Methodist church, of which Mr. Duke was a member. The services were conducted by Dr. J. C. Kilgo, president of Trinity college, assisted by Dr. E. A. Yates, of the Trinity faculty, and the Rev. T. A. Smoot, pastor of the church. After the services at the church the remains were placed in the Duke mausoleum, at Maplewood cemetery, followed there by a procession made up of trustees of Trinity college, the faculty of Trinity college and Trinity Park High School, firemen, board of aldermen and city officials, county officials and citizens generally. The floral offerings were probably the most profuse ever seen in the State, one florist alone bringing half a carload of design. A special car from New York brought a number of American Tobacco Company officials and directors to attend the funeral.

IN MEMORIAM.

Headquarters Wilmington Light Infantry, Company "C," Second Regiment, North Carolina National Guard, May 9, 1905.

WHEREAS, on Sunday the seventh day of May, A. D., 1905, it pleased Almighty God, in His infinite wisdom, to take from our midst our esteemed friend and comrade, William Arthur Little, who by his manly bearing and pleasant manner had endeared himself to all with whom he came in contact. A soldier faithful and untiring in the performance of all duties assigned him; kind and sympathetic, yet firm and unfaltering, he had, from his first association with us, won the respect and friendship of all his comrades, and from the interest he manifested in us was a short time ago appointed historian of this company, a position recently created, he being the first to whom this honor was assigned.

While deploring his untimely and tragic end we can but submissively bow to the will of our Heavenly Father and be thankful for the privilege of having known him. His place in our ranks can never be filled and his memory will ever linger with us.

Therefore be it resolved, that the secretary be instructed to forward to his bereaved family this heartfelt testimony of our sympathy and sorrow and that a copy of same be spread upon our minutes and be sent to the daily papers of this city.
